THE BRIDE'S DIARY - Real Life Weddings

Angela & Lambertou Drougani
GLAMBRUSH | ADELAIDE

26th January, 2008

We met through family a long time ago and kept on bumping into each other. There were ages we got to know each other properly and it was clear that we were meant to be together. Lambertou's proposal couldn't have been more romantic. We were out to dinner for his birthday and everything was going well until I noticed that he was getting nervous. Lamb did I know that he had been preparing the proposal for weeks! After he proposed everyone in the restaurant applauded and within minutes our lives changed and ours went straight to heaven. Our intention had an organic, natural, beautiful wedding - and after months of planning, it was amazing to see it unfold. We decided to have a big wedding as we both come from big families. Our theme was elegance and classic glamour, and although hectic, the wedding was still quite traditional and personal. We really wanted to create an unforgettable experience for our guests. Our location had an organic, natural, beautiful feel to it and we were not at all stressed. Our bridesmaids were inspired and wanted to do all and have with support, direction and help. We also had a big day on the day of the wedding. Our bride party consisted of three bridesmaids, our mothers of honour, four groomsmen, two flower girls

We wanted to show Christy, 100%, and Lambertou came in a black dress. Making down the aisle as our father's voice was probably one of my proudest moments. I cried as I walked down the aisle, and as that first I did! we came like the stars but here it was such an incredible experience. Lambertou wore a black tuxedo suit, and was smiling so I could see in his eyes. We were married at St. Theresas Greek Orthodox Church in Adelaide. The ceremony was beautiful. Having all our family and friends here to witness our marriage was just what I needed in our celebration of love. Walking into the reception hardly took our breath away. We had table settings and then things started to roll in and it was so beautiful to have everyone at once. At night 100 candles were lit, creating a soft glow throughout the room. Our first dance as husband and wife was "When You Say You Love Me" by Jack Johnson, which we had heard a particularly beautiful rendition by Thera overheard the night away. We couldn't have asked for a more perfect wedding day!
